

Testimonial from Retracement Levels

Retracement Levels is a private research firm offering proprietary statistical research services to traders and investors.

We started our business with a very basic 'home-made' website but soon we realized we needed a website with a better look.

There is an old adage in Wall Street that says: 'the flashier the presentation, the more worthless the investment'.

We didn't want to be flashy. We just wanted to have a cool, simple clean, functional website.

We like Joomla and we did choose a template that we wanted to customize for our new website.

After a long research on the internet and a couple of terrible experiences with some wanna-be-joomla-developers, we found 'The Web Xpert'.

Having worked before with several web developers, we were prepared for the worst: high costs, unprofessionalism, little attention to details, no availability for large customizations, communications problems, long delays to develop simple websites.

But from day one, the 'The Web Xpert' was a dream: Jason is the best web project manager we have ever been worked with. Whenever you need him, he's there, he answers back quickly, he always delivered what we needed, beyond our expectations.

His availability is really a plus, you can discuss your site details with him forever, he's always ready to implement new changes and sometimes he changes things that you wanted to change before you even asked him to do it: he's a mind reader!

Deadlines were never an issue since they were always delivering the required developments for our site pretty quickly.

Frankly, we would prefer not to recommend 'The Web Xpert' because we would like to keep them only for us.

The skills needed to do a Joomla site are considerable and we have appreciated the high level of skills shown by "The Web Xpert". There has not been one time when we asked "Can you do this?" and they couldn't. The answer was always: "Yes, no problem, we can do that".

They are truly experts and definitely the best and fastest Joomla web developer we have ever worked with.

Finally, a note about cost: their pricing is competitive, when compared to US Joomla developers (more expensive) or UK Joomla developers (most expensive - and slowest).

Especially considering their availability to customize on demand, the "The Web Xpert" is very good value: it costs to work this way, to be always ready, and they do offer such a great professional expert service at the right price that we almost wanted to hire them full time!
